Ms. Sirikorn Kusolpong, the owner and designer of the Silver and Handicrafts, specialized in designing unique necklaces and bracelets using “Karen Hill” charms. The Karen Hill is the native people who lived in high mountains in Thailand. They started their mastery in silver crafting many years ago when King Bhumibol visited the village and set up a jewelry-making project as an alternative to opium farming. Their outstanding designs reflect their own traditional beliefs in harmony and nature. So, each of the silver charms, pendants and beads are not only of high quality, but they also embody centuries of history and culture, making the silver jewelry of the “Karen Hill” Tribe more valuable than gold.

CHIANGMAI JEWELRY

The inspiration comes directly from the art in the designer's heart and each design is carefully handcraft into real product. She has been involved in the jewelry making for more than 20 years and used her experience to continue crafting a premium-quality handmade jewelry.

Baan Tawai is a village in Chiang Mai that is known as the center of handicrafts. It was awarded "OTOP Tourism Village of Thailand."

Baan Tawai has also earned a worldwide reputation from its skills and craftsmanship over many decades.

"A jewelry piece that is delicate and unique like no other"
